About NUCLEUS . . .

The company is based in New York and is composed of eight artists with varied backgrounds within the arts. Significantly, this company brings together the talents of the oldest daughters of two of the foremost proponents of freedom and justice in this country, Malcolm X and Martin Luther King, Jr. They are Attallah Shabazz and Yolanda King, who serve as Artistic Directors of the company.

About "STEPPING INTO TOMORROW"

It is an original theatrical production, which was written by the company members, and speaks directly to young people about the struggles of growing into adulthood.

It is set in a cabaret at which seven high school friends are to meet for a ten year reunion. They reflect on the changes that have taken place in their lives over that time through song, dance and dialogue.

If you open your mind and your heart, maybe you will recognize someone close.

The Nucleus Company is represented by:
